Social & Emotional Intelligence: The First Step in Bringing Out Your Best.

More Life provides a proven, scientific method for a spectacular, successful career and life. It’s an invaluable foundation for lifelong learning, fulfilling your potential, and ultimately your transformation—whether your main aim in life is business, strong relationships, parenting, community service, or your faith.

Wright’s proprietary methodology for lasting change is a synthesis and application of research and methodology that brings together the best of neuroscience, positive psychology, behavioral economics, and education. The methodology you’ll learn is derived from a multi-year research study which examined individuals who experienced more lasting positive change in their lives than others, and is proven to help you get more out of your life.

“I was already a highly successful career woman, but now, I am experiencing new excitement and possibilities for my relationships and work life. I’m taking on more responsibilities and increasing my compensation while I do it.”

– Valerie, Global Sr. Director Human Resources

“I work in the not-for-profit field. Now, with the social and emotional intelligence training, rather than just thinking, dreaming and wanting to make a difference in the world, I am out making changes, influencing others, and powerfully contributing to my family, my work, and society.”

– Molly, Attorney

In top leadership positions, the difference between high and low performers comes from social and emotional intelligence.
Radical and Real Results
Expect a...
• Quantum leap in perspective and results, not incremental improvement
• Process for sustained lasting results

"As a physician working in a high level healthcare setting, I’ve found that boosting my social and emotional intelligence has made me more productive, more satisfied, and contributed significantly to me being rated as one of the top physicians in Chicago."

– Marilyn, Physician

"A magna cum laude graduate from a top law school, I had a high powered job, great salary and good marriage all before age 30. But I learned there was much more available to me. I’ve combined my drive with my love of service to create a thriving law practice and a deeper, closer and more loving relationship with my wife."

– Bilal, Attorney

75% of job success is related to social and emotional intelligence—only 25% is based on skill.
